BELCHER—DUNHAM
Of cordial interest to friends in different sections of Georgia and Oklahoma is the marriage of Miss Ruth Belcher, of this place, and John Byron Dunham, of Pryor, Okla., and Guyton. The wedding took place Friday, July 3, at 6 o'clock at the residence of Rev. and Mrs. Lon L. Day in Savannah, the Rev. Day officiating. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Belcher and the late Mr. Belcher, prominent farmers of this community. After her graduation from the Brooklet High School she graduated at Georgia Teachers College, in Statesboro. For the past several years she has taught in the Georgia schools and is recognized as an outstanding teacher.

She chose for her wedding dress a white sheer crepe with a full length white coat with all white accessories. Her only jewelry was a string of moonstones. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Dunham will make their home in the Cubbage apartment in Guyton, where Mr. Dunham is connected with the R. W. Jackson Co.

ENGLERT—WATERS

Of cordial interest is the marriage of Miss Glendene Englert and Dr. Aubrey Waters, of Brooklet and Athens. The wedding took place in St. John's Episcopal church in Wausau, Saturday evening, June 13, with Rev. Wm. C. Way officiating. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Englert, of Wausau, Wis. She was given in marriage by her father and presented a charming picture in her gown of ivory marquisette over satin. The torso length bodice was trimmed with rows of Alencon lace, and the same lace formed a deep border on the very full skirt. She wore her mother's pearls and carried a large round bouquet of gardenias, surrounded with sweet heart roses.

The bride's attendants were Miss Katherine Kettler, of Milwaukee; Mrs. Donald Kettler, of Menomonee, Wis., and the groom's sister, Mrs. Owen Bacon, of Hinesville. Donald Jacobson was best man and the ushers were Leonard Englert Jr., Bryant Groulx and Thomas Frey, of University of Wisconsin, and Charles Plesier, of Stout Institute, Menomonee, Wis. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Englert entertained with a reception and buffet supper at the Wausau Country Club, where a stringed orchestra played for the reception and dance.

Dr. and Mrs. Waters spent their honeymoon at the Gateway Inn, Three Lakes, and other northern lake resorts. They also visited relatives in Brooklet before going to their home in Athens. The bride is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where she was affiliated with Delta Delta sorority, and she also attended the National College of Education in Evanston, Ill. She taught school in Schofield, Ill., last year. The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Waters, of Brooklet. After his graduation from the Brook-

SEEK PICTURES OF LOST GOVERNORS

Eighteen Notables Have Been Lost Sight of While Time Continues Parade

Lost! Eighteen governors of Georgia!

A communique on the missing executives was issued by the state department of education while sleuths worked frantically to unravel the baffling mystery.

It was unofficially reported that the eighteen governors were somewhere holding a political rally, but high educational officials refused to substantiate this rumor.

This situation, whereby not one but eighteen governors had allowed themselves to become lost on the eve of an important election, was believed to be unrivaled in the political history of Georgia.

Be that as it may, the state department of education does know that it can't find photographs of eighteen early governors and may have to omit them from a special supplement it wishes to add to the new seventh grade history of Georgia, which is scheduled for publication early in August.

Plans for the supplement call for the names and pictures of Georgia's sixty-nine governors. It will be available to schools to hang on their classroom walls.

Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, urged that anyone knowing where a picture of any of the eighteen could be obtained notify him immediately.

The "missing" and the years they were in office were listed as follows: William Stephens, 1745-51; Henry Parker, 1751-53; Patrick Graham, 1753-54; John Reynolds, 1754-57; Henry Ellis, 1757-60; James Wright, 1760-76; John Houston, 1778-79; John Warrat, 1779-80; Richard Hoxley, 1780; Stephen Heard, 1780-81; Nathan Brownson, 1781-82; John Martin, 1782-83; Samuel Elbert, 1785-86; Edward Telfair, 1786-87 and 1790-93; George Matthews, 1787-88 and 1793-96; George Handly, 1788-89; David Emanuel, 1801, and William Rabun, 1817-19.

Carr-Buncle Pains

By KERMIT R. CARR

Suggestion to telephone operators: When someone calls you for the correct time, why not say, "Correct time? Eight o'clock and time to buy War Bonds!"

The political pot is beginning to simmer, but it won't boil much. The old applesauce will be only warmed over.

It won't be long before we will be saying, "Nero fiddled while Rome burned!" Did he really? Authorities agree this would have been impossible, since the violin was unknown in Nero's time, and was not developed until several centuries later. Hint to the unwisest: Get all the facts before accepting a story or rumor.

It all depends on how you look at things. I had to get up at five o'clock the other morning. Thank goodness I don't have to every morning. While in Savannah last week I had to run to catch a street car. I am thankful that I can run. Tonight while I am writing this column, I am dead sleepy. I am thankful I am not dead. I am thankful I am about the war. BE THANKFUL THAT WE ARE AMERICANS!

Another Youngster Writes His Mother

Letters from far-away lands are intensely interesting to us at home according to the numbers of our forces increase abroad. From time to time this column has been permitted to publish intimate little letters from overseas soldiers to their mothers. Particularly interesting have been those from most distant points. We doubt it there has ever been a letter written from further away than Australia, which is the land down under. One such letter is that which follows. It was written by Bertrand Deal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ashbery Deal, who is understood to be "somewhere in Australia." It was intended as a Mother's Day message, and was received by the young man's mother about that time.

Omitting the place of origin and other preliminaries, the letter in part is as follows: "Sunday, May 10th. "Today is Sunday, and oh, what a glorious, beautiful day! The sun is shining so bright and pretty; the sky looks so blue and beautiful—everything looks perfect; the birds are singing so gayly from morning till night to God their Creator who made them. It seems that nature is doing all of its best to try and make man forget the horrors of war that is raging everywhere the world over. Before long all these heathen nations will be brought to realize that there is a Supreme Creator and Ruler that is over all the nation and worlds. I just came back from a little church when you have to carry a gun which you must use to kill your fellow Pilgrims first come to the United States for freedom and religion. The chaplain made a nice talk about Mother's Day which we all enjoyed very much. He gave a box of candy and a verse to the one that had the biggest family. It wasn't me that got it, although I would have liked to have had it for you.

"I just thought I would write you these few lines today, as I wrote you yesterday. For I thought of a couple of more little things I might say. I received your last letter Wednesday the 6th, that you mailed on April 22. You said that Cleon had written me the day before, but I haven't received it yet, and I don't get it. I will on account of a certain reason or two that I cannot tell you. I am glad that I will have to write you all over again because of it. But I will be able to figure it out. I wrote Lethia, Leona and Cleon the other day. I hope they get across, and this one too.

"Love as always. "BERTRAND." (Young Deal's address is "Pfc. Bertrand E. Deal, Batty, G. 70th C.A., ASN 7007247 U. S. Army, care Postmaster APO 502, San Francisco, Calif.")

When Thieves Fall Out

AN ADAGE as old as time conveys this thought, "When thieves fall out, honest men get their deserts." We don't know who said it, nor the occasion for the saying, but there is a mouthful of truth in the words.

It was only a few short months ago that Tom Linder and Eugene Talmadge were sailing under one flag, inseparable friends. Most men who have ever been elected along as a part of a Talmadge outfit have been willing to play second fiddle and shine by the reflection of their chief's exceeding brilliancy until election was over; and some of them who then wanted to be independent in the control of their affairs. Talmadge has always been the type of man, who, having assisted a friend to get in, demanded the right to control his actions and share liberally his profits. You will recall that recent months ago Talmadge was demanding that Linder give one of his best jobs to one of Talmadge's best friends; and you will recall that a wordy war ensued.

With Talmadge, any man who refuses to do his bidding is fit subject for complete annihilation. Did Talmadge want to remove Linder as a hindrance? Did he know of Linder's inclination to seek the senatorship in opposition to Dick Russell, and did he grasp the conclusion that it was an opportunity to remove him speedily as a non-co-operative? Does this seem tangible?

All this poppycock about a trade with Russell and Hugh Peterson—well, it just doesn't make sense. Talmadge never goes out of the way to protect anybody except himself and his friends. Tom Linder lashes out in anger, but the rule which required him to resign from the office of commissioner of agriculture before he sought the office of senator was designed entirely to get him out of the way and permit the governor to control whatever pie would thus be left for dishing out in his own interest.

Hugh Peterson and Hugh's friends are in noisive involved nor concerned over any apparent influence the rule may have had on the race for congress in the First district.

Potential Mothers

AROUND Christmas time have you ever pondered how significant the things are which are impressed upon the lives of boys and girls? Did you recognize that the little gift which the boy or girl carries in his or her hand while it is new, means a never-ending influence upon the life of that child, and even upon its posterity?

Being past the age of tolerance, we find ourselves peevish occasionally when some playful, brawling kid jumps from behind a hiding place, flashes a toy gun in our face and demands "Hands up!" and laughs at the impression of his prank. We place the blame upon the indulgent parent who has turned the mind of his boy in the avenue of rambunctiousness; we ruminate there and there that some day this boy will end in a gun brawl unless his trend is altered, and we have already passed sentence upon his parents for having turned his face in that direction.

And then we see the little girl of the same age hugging her doll tenderly to her breast, and we realize that something worthwhile is being woven into her life. Do you think a girl ever outgrows the natural love for dolls and babies? We think they do not.

Last Friday afternoon near night-fall there ambled along almost in the center of the street passing our office a little boy apparently fifteen or two and three years of age. He was evidently lost, but he hadn't reached the stage where he was alarmed; he was growing anxious, and sought something which he could not see. As he came near a member of our party attracted his attention. To every question asked him, he only nodded his head. We wondered where he belonged, but he declined to enter try to tell us. We led him across the street to the bus station where a crowd had assembled, and thought possibly he had walked away from an observed from somebody there. No body knew him, but two lovely young girls, apparently school girls about to take the bus home for the week end, were interested. They thought they could get him to talk, but he still was silent. They tickled him under the chin, and said pleasant things to him which would have made a larger boy thrill; he accepted their little gifts, but he gave no response to their questions.

And while they pleaded with the youngster to permit them to be helpful, we recalled the little girls we have seen about Christmas time with their dolls hugged to their bosoms, and we knew that some mother unconsciously had been training these lovely girls to thrill at an opportunity to be helpful to a babe in distress. No, we do not know their names; we'd recognize the girls if we saw them again, and we'd be glad to recommend them to any worthy young man who would admire that sort of girl.

About the lost boy? He never did speak, but we had begun to fear he might break over and weep when we saw a lovely young woman in manifest distress walking earnestly down the street, her eyes searching from side to side, which told us she sought something. Yes, it was her baby who had walked away as she was busy in a store; she had hurried in search when she discovered his absence. She was not excited, though she was immensely interested. Wonderful attitude with which young mothers meet situations like that! Isn't it great to have a young mother?

Might Be Over-Cropped

THE THING that makes democracy safe is its conglomeration of ideals and contrary objectives. Often enough, the man who puts on the breaks has been worth as much to a community as the man who presses the accelerator. Plenty of gasoline is all well and good if the way is clear, but when you are turning a sharp, blind corner, brakes are the most worthwhile force.

An Americanized democracy, from long operation, combining go-ahead and hold-back elements in almost equal force, can be trusted to stay somewhere close to the right attitude. It may swing a little too far to the right or the left at times, but given time American democracy will just itself and get back to a workable attitude.

American democracy has boasted of its capacity to assimilate the divergent elements which flow in with more less regularity from other worlds. We are proud of that boast, but we suspect sometimes we are getting over-cropped in our job of assimilation. We have heard the story of the two snakes which set about swallowing each other tail-first, and both proceeded very well to a given point; then the swallowing ran against an obstacle; Each snake discovered he was devouring part of himself along with his adversary. His assimilating capacity was being strained.

Recently some business men were talking about the necessity of presenting certain matters of importance before administrative officials in the nation's capital. A man who was planning to visit the capital for that purpose inquired of another man—one who had recently before presented similar matters—as to names of the person he would contact. And the man who had been to the capital to him, "That would not help any; names are not like they used to be—no more Joneses, Smiths, Browns, Blacks; you can't call names now, but you have to sneeze them."

And what the man said told a story about the decadence of American democracy. We have assimilated so many divergent ideals, that we have lost the essence—the soul—of democracy. Democracy of old did not look to the government for its weekly check for groceries and liquor bills; it depended upon itself to provide its necessities, or bear the consequences. We saw a man staggering on the streets a few days ago, intoxicated almost beyond navigation; they told us he had just that day received his old age relief check.

You can't call the name of a democracy like that—you have to sneeze it.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

I knew some gentle in the electric business. They are nice kind of ducks—most of them are—but, like any place, you might run into one that would make you hesitate about letting him hold your gold watch and chain, especially if it was an extra dark night. But it was sort of presumptuous, you can say the same about a plumber or a dentist or anybody. And personally, if I was crowded enough I could say plenty about a dentist I had prowling around amongst my rickety teeth not so long ago.

But instead of teeth, I will get back to kilowatts. I tinkered around with kilowatts for quite a spell, and I never did run into an out-and-out onery hombre, or a Jesse James, like some windy folks call 'em. It riles me when High Places sound off with abuse and say the government should make the make, model, motor number and state tag number of his vehicle. Each stamp has a serial number.

Official use of the stamp begins July 1 and lasts for one year. Stamps may be purchased at all postoffices somewhere close to the right attitude. It may swing a little too far to the right or the left at times, but given time American democracy will just itself and get back to a workable attitude.

U. S. Auto Stamps Are Now On Sale

Atlanta, June 15 (GPs)—Your second federal vehicle tax stamp now is on sale at the postoffice. This one will cost you $5.00.

The new stamp is red with a design similar to the first stamp issued in January. Glue is on the decorated side so that it can be attached to the windshield from the inside of the automobile. On the reverse side are spaces where the motorist must record the make, model, motor number and state tag number of his vehicle. Each stamp also has a serial number.

Official use of the stamp begins July 1 and lasts for one year. Stamps may be purchased at all postoffices somewhere close to the right attitude. It may swing a little too far to the right or the left at times, but given time American democracy will just itself and get back to a workable attitude.

WHETHER it's carrying selectees to examination points and induction centers... war workers to defense plants... men of the armed forces to military posts, on official business or on furloughs... or government personnel speeding war activities... THAT is Greyhound's FIRST JOB.

There can be none other so imperative. After that, comes Mr. and Mrs. Civilian. We urge civilian to limit travel to necessary trips—and then during the early days of the week, to leave more weekend accommodations for those who can travel only at that time.

We are expending every possible effort to adequately serve the public's needs for transportation. Some of the time we can accomplish our aims... but service at you were accustomed to in days of peace. ## ARNALL'S FRIENDS BACK HIM STRONG

Thousands Throng Newman For Campaign Opening At Home Town Saturday

(By Curt Harbuck)

Old-fashioned Southern hospitality and fevered political enthusiasm came to Newman Saturday, July 4, in celebration of the official opening of Ellis Arnall's campaign for governor. Veterans followers of Georgia's politician proclaimed this the most colorful and enthusiastic event of its kind they have ever witnessed.

The people of Coweta county went "all-out" in their plans to give the candidate the "full-speed-ahead" signal in the official opening of his campaign. Bands playing! Flags waving! Banners reading "Elect Arnall Governor!" Special souvenir editions of the Newman Herald and the Newman Times! Free breakfasts! A grand stick with all the trimmings that's the scene and atmosphere that greeted the throngs that came from all sections of the state.

Mr. Arnall expressed his appreciation to his fellow townsmen for their part in arranging the celebration, and for their friendship, interest and support of his candidacy for governor.

Appropriately, he cited the tyrannical incidents that 165 years ago led to the struggle of the early American colonies for existence and the signing of the Declaration of Independence. He recited parts of this ever-important document pertaining to the rights of the people, setting forth their duty as well as their rights to protect themselves against any dictatorial power which might become destructive to their rights and happiness.

Mr. Arnall spoke of the priceless heritage of the American people under our democratic form of government, and made reference to the toll, suffering, privations and sacrifices that brought about its establishment. He severely reprimanded the critics of our national administration, as well as those who are not giving whole-hearted co-operation during the present struggle for the principles of democracy. "Today," he stated, "I want to say as emphatically as I know how to state it, that as bad as the critics have tried to make us believe our national government is, it is still the finest government in the world."

"Today we find that throughout the world the forces of totalitarianism and dictatorship are on the march. Democracy, liberty, freedom, honor

GASOLINE RULINGS MADE SPECIFIC

Five Miles Per Day Is Estimated Allowance For Each Automobile Owner

Colonel Charles H. Patterson, executive director, Georgia Citizens' Defense Committee, has issued the following statement:

The Office of Price Administration's new coupon plan of permanent gasoline rationing will become effective July 22, 1942.

The new plan will affect every owner of an automobile in Georgia. Each car owner will be issued an "A" book of coupons sufficient to enable him to drive his car 2,500 miles per year, for all purposes, including going back and forth to work and family use. The allowance is based on 150 miles per month, or five miles per day for business or occupational use, and 50 miles per month, or three miles per day for pleasure. The basis for the calculation of the above allowance is 15 miles per gallon of gasoline. There will be no unlimited allowances of gasoline. In other words, no "X" books will be issued after July 21, 1942. The registration dates will be July 9th, 10th and 11th. The gasoline allowance under the "A" book can be used exclusively for business or for pleasure within the discretion of the car owner. From the foregoing it will be seen that if the "A" book is used on the basis of five miles per day for business or occupation, any person residing more than 2 1/2 miles from his business or occupation will face the necessity of going back and forth by means of public transportation or by sharing the ride with others.

If four or more persons form a "Share the Ride Club," each member thereof will be issued an "A" coupon book. This "A" book can be used to obtain its allowance of gasoline only for the car owned by the applicant. Therefore, the alternate use of cars in the club will normally be made by each member thereof. If the aggregate mileage of the "A" books will not permit the members of the club to go to and from their businesses and occupations, a "B" coupon book will be issued to the members applying for same, but in the amount only to cover the actual additional mileage to be determined by the rationing board after consideration of all facts presented to it in the written application for "B" books.

Filling station operators can secure only the amount of gasoline represented by the coupons actually collected by them from car owners and turned in by them to their fuel issuing companies.

Public transportation should be used whenever and wherever possible, and no "B" coupon books will be issued so long as such transportation is available and adequate. Applications for "B" books must state why public transportation is not available and adequate.

Director James M. Landis, of the Office of Civilian Defense in Washington, in his letter to the chairman of the rationing board, states as follows: "Transportation is today the one great war problem in this country which has not been solved. We have achieved record production. We have raised a great army. Our navy is becoming stronger each day. By the patriotic buying of war bonds, we are meeting the problems of wartime finance. But in the matter of transportation we are still fighting to hold our own."

In the East today the transportation problem is of foremost importance. One aspect of the problem has to do with gasoline and gasoline rationing. Because tankers are so numerous and cannot be risked at sea to carry gasoline along the coastwise lanes in the teeth of enemy submarines, and because rail facilities are crowded with "must" freight and passenger traffic directly connected with important affairs of war—because of these factors there exists a gasoline shortage in the eastern United States. Enough gasoline is shipped into the East to meet the demands of necessary activity, but there is little left over for pleasure driving. That is why gasoline rationing is being instituted.

SEVEN MILLIONS IN DIVIDENDS PAID

Georgia Institutions Are Enjoying Most Profitable Conditions In Many Years

Atlanta, July 6 (GPs).—More than $7,000,000 in dividends are being distributed this month to stockholders of Georgia companies, a check-up just completed in Atlanta revealed. The dividends show a substantial increase over figures for the same period of 1939—a heavy year—despite depression and rationing.

Total dividends now being distributed are $7,082,572, compared with slightly more than $6,000,000 in 1939, and only $4,507,000 in 1937. The current dividends likewise are substantially more than paid for the corresponding period last year when the total was $6,645,000. Some of the dividends are regular quarterly payments; others semi-annual.

Coca-Cola again heads the list despite rationing. It is paying out $2,000,000 in a quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share on its common stock, and $900,000 in semi-annual dividends of $1.50 on its "A" stock. Second in total payments is the Georgia Power Company with $650,000 on its $6 preferred stock. Next is Bibb Manufacturing Company, of Macon, with $1 quarter for a total of $96,190 and an extra $2 per share.

Others among the top were: Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast railroad, 5 per cent preferred, semi-annual, $129,507.50; First National Bank of Atlanta, quarterly and extra, $270,000; Trust Company of Georgia, quarterly, $120,000; Savannah Sugar Refinery, quarterly, $109,232; Nahi Corporation, common, quarterly, $128,750, and preferred, $18,893.31; Lanett Bleachery and Dye Works, $200,000.

Scrap Salvage

The WPB said a new and greatly intensified campaign to salvage scrap materials will be formally opened July 13, because the only way the U. S. can meet materials requirements of war production is "to collect every last bit of scrap from every farm and home, and from every commercial enterprise and industry in the country." ## Preparedness Steps

Army Chief of Ordnance Campbell, speaking at Salisbury, N. C., said, "Our tanks are superior to anything the enemy has. Type by type, our tanks have heavier guns, heavier armor and greater speed... our high-velocity 75-millimeter guns in our M-3 tanks far outgun anything the Germans have... and we can fire this high-velocity 75 when the tank is in motion, which is more than any enemy tank, whatever size, can do."

General Campbell said the so-called "new German 88-MM gun" is about as secret as a daisy water pistol. It has been known to us and our allies for at least 10 years. We outmatch this gun with several of our field and anti-tank guns. He said the German 88 is effective as an anti-tank weapon only within its limited range.

U. S. machine guns, Gen. Campbell said, will "outfunction any enemy gun under the most adverse circumstances—in other words, they will keep firing when enemy guns have to shut down to change barrels." The United States "have built a better automobile, a better typewriter, a better icebox and we can build—and are building—better machine weapons," Gen. Campbell said.

Gen. Campbell said, "The enemy cannot out American design and production and spirit." The WPB reported the dollar value of war shipments from 430 automotive industry plants totaled $350 million during April, an increase of 46 per cent over February.

Army Services of Supply Commander Somervell instructed civilian guards at 11,000 war plants to organize an auxiliary to the army's corps of military police as a further protection against enemy saboteurs.

The War Front

The "Flying Tigers" of the American volunteer group were placed under the Army Air Corps command in China and opened their operations with heavy raids on three key bases at Hankow, Nanchang and Canton. Six Japanese planes were destroyed without loss.

A navy communiqué reported army bombers scored hits on an enemy cruiser and sank a transport in the Aleutian Islands. In addition, navy submarines sank three destroyers. The situation in the islands "has not changed materially," however, in the past two weeks, the navy report said. The Office of Indian Affairs announced all of the Aleutian Islands west of Dutch Harbor, as well as the Pribilof Islands, have been classified as parts of a total evacuation area. The office said nearly 1,000 civilians have been removed from these areas by the navy and transferred to the American mainland.

The first communiqué from U. S. headquarters of the European theater reported six U. S. Douglas light bombers attacked U. S. pilots successfully attacked targets by daylight in German-occupied territory in a joint operation with RAF bombers. Two American planes were reported missing. The navy said U. S. bombers carried out a surprise attack on Japanese-held Wake Island. The navy also announced the U. S. aircraft carrier was carrying aerial reinforcement to the British island of Malta in the Mediterranean. Gen. MacArthur's Australian headquarters reported repeated air raids on Japanese-held territory in that area. The sinking of 17 more United Nations' merchant vessels by enemy submarine action was announced.

Housing

FHA field offices resumed the processing of applications for priority assistance in the construction of privately financed homes for war workers. Processing was suspended earlier because of confusion over the simplified procedure concerning preference rating applications for the electricity, gas, water, and sewer connections of proposed war housing projects covering the housing itself. The joint applications will be processed entirely in the field by the FHA offices and by NHA and WPB regional offices. NHA Administrator Bradford issued a simplifying order to empower qualified creditors or lenders to decide whether a proposed remodeling project is "war housing," thus exempting the project from credit restrictions set up by the Federal Reserve Board.

Scrap Salvage

The WPB said a new and greatly intensified campaign to salvage scrap materials will be formally opened July 13, because the only way the U. S. can meet materials requirements of war production is "to collect every last bit of scrap from every farm and home, and from every commercial enterprise and industry in the country." The iron and steel industry has raised about $1,500,000 and the glycerin industry, about $500,000 to finance national advertising to stimulate scrap collection, the board said. The farm implement industry has offered to assist the country's 12,000 state and local salvage committees in the collection of rural scrap. Materials to be sought in particular are iron and steel, rubber and waste fats.

The rubber scrap salvage campaign will close at midnight July 10th. The public building administration reported 15,000 pounds of scrap rubber salvaged from federal buildings during the first two weeks of the campaign. The war department said the army faces a 250,000-ton rubber shortage by the end of 1943, but present plans do not include military requisitioning of civilian tires.

Rationing

Price Administrator Henderson said consumers may purchase an extra two pounds of sugar between July 10 and August 22, in addition to the basic half-a-pound-a-week ration. The new rule will be applied to the basic half-a-pound-a-week ration system for gasoline rationing, will grant a fraction of a gallon more per week than temporary A cards, but the conditions that must be met to obtain supplemental rations under the permanent system are so strict that most motorists will have to get along on the minimum. Motorists will register for A books July 9, 10 and 11. Small boat owners will be issued E and R gasoline ration books and will receive a basic six months ration of four gallons for each horsepower for inboard motors and five gallons for outboard motors.

The OPA set the quota of passenger automobiles for rationing during July at 25,000, excluding state and national reserves, which will reduce the original inventory of about 402,000 to about 377,000. Between July 9 and August 31, the office will release 230,000 bicycles for rationing—180,000 to the state, 20,000 to state reserves and 30,000 for a national reserve.

Between Us

It all happened with Sara Alice Bradley at Wesleyan and being invited out for a week end with a lady who admired her at church in Macon. When she was invited to go, Sara Alice told the lady she had a date for the week end with a friend coming down from Tech; whereupon this lady told her son was coming home from Tech for the week end bringing one of his friends with him. After much thinking, Sara Alice decided to accept the very kind invitation and went, knowing she could fill her date with the Tech boy in the guest house. It was there she met the young man who was her date. Two of our other young men are in Macon this fall, Ann Morrison will go to Wesleyan and John Turner to Mercer. Our young people are making plans for college this fall, and some have been studying catalogues of different schools. Carmen Cowart has definitely decided on Brenau, and several are planning to enter the University of Georgia in September. July 4th was very quiet in town, but many of our people went to the beach and many have reminders of it yet. Lenora Whiteside and her two attractive visitors were at the Beach Club the past week end and they all came back nursing headaches. The three weeks of the Georgia day school in the recreational room, the Georgia day school, was presented by Mrs. Glen Bland Jr. During the social hour cream and cake were served by group one, and Mrs. Joe Fletcher chairman. A piece of crystal was presented to Mrs. C. M. Coakson, who leaves soon for Cordele to make her home.

JOINT CLUB MEET DRAWS BIG CROWD

Two Chambers of Commerce, Rotary and Lions Unite For Fraternal Evening

More than seventy-five Statesboro business men, representing every age and class of business, sat together at a delightful dinner Tuesday evening to discuss Statesboro's past, present and future.

It was a joint meeting of the civic organizations of the city—Senior and Junior Chambers of Commerce, Lions and Rotary clubs. A roll call and show of hands revealed that the Senior Chamber of Commerce had present the largest number of members, 37; the Rotary membership was slightly less, then followed the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Lions in order.

Addressed by the standing roll call that most of those present were members of at least two organizations, and some even belonged to three. Another incident of interest was the roll call of members absent now in the armed service, in which the Junior Chamber of Commerce had the largest number, 15. Followed then the Rotary with eight, Lions with four and Senior Chamber of Commerce with three. The point would easily be evident that clubs in which the younger men predominate have sent the largest number into service. It was interesting that three clubs—the Rotary and both Chambers of Commerce—reported one young man, Hobson Dubose, among their service representatives.

The dinner was held in the coffee shop of the Rushing Hotel at 9 o'clock, with Z. S. Henderson, chairman of the program committee, in charge. Presidents of the four clubs were called upon to make suggestions as to ways by which the clubs might render the greatest service to the community. The Minkovitz spoke for the Senior Chamber of Commerce, Paul G. Franklin Jr. for the Junior Chamber, Everett Livingston for the Lions, and Thad Morris substituted for Horace Smith as spokesman for the Rotary Club.

At the conclusion of the evening's program Rev. C. M. Coakson, pastor of the past nine years of Statesboro Baptist church, who is leaving next week for a new pastorate in Cordele, was called upon for an address, which was the feature of the evening. He presented a gift from the Senior Chamber of Commerce as an expression of appreciation of his association with that club during the years of his ministry here.

Mrs. Z. S. Henderson at the piano gave a lovely program of music during the meal, and at the close led in the singing of patriotic songs.

STATSBORO MAN GETS PROMOTION

J. B. Averitt Raised To Rank Of Lieutenant Colonel in Canal Zone

Friends here and elsewhere are delighted to learn of the honor which has been conferred upon J. B. Averitt, popular Statesboro military man, in his recent promotion from rank of major to rank of lieutenant colonel, which became effective July 5th.

Col. Averitt has long been associated with the military organization in Statesboro, dating from the establishment of the unit of National Guard ten years or more ago. He began with the rank of lieutenant, from which he was soon elevated to a captaincy. Shortly before he left with the Statesboro outfit for Camp Stewart in the fall of 1940 he was elevated to the rank of major, which rank he retained until his most recent promotion.

Col. Averitt was assigned to overseas service in the latter part of last year, and was transferred to the Canal Zone, where he now is. His present mailing address is "Lt. Col. James B. Averitt, 83rd CA (AA) APO No. 822, care Postmaster, New Orleans, La. It is known that he will be pleased to hear from his friends at home.

It is pleasant to learn that in his present surroundings Col. Averitt is becoming adjusted to the new conditions of a rather strenuous life. He is a military man from training, and if the present struggle continues long, his friends shall expect to hear of added recognition coming to his way.

Stores To Unite In All-Out Drive

Friday Agreed Upon As Fitting Occasion Reals Bond and Stamp Quotas

R. L. Brady, who is chairman of the merchants' committee directing organized effort in the "Retailers for Victory" campaign, has issued a call for intensive effort tomorrow—Friday, July 17th.

The retailers of Statesboro, who always stand ready to answer every call to service, will devote the entire period from 12 o'clock to 12:30 to selling war stamps and bonds.

This special drive for tomorrow is designed to reach Secretary Morgenthau's declaration that the American people will willingly subscribe ten per cent of their incomes, and that enforced savings will not be found necessary.

Involved in tomorrow's activity is the real test whether Americans can be depended upon to travel without being driven—whether they will act right voluntarily, or wait till they are compelled to answer the appeal.

Tomorrow is "American Heroes Day." It is an opportunity for the people of this community—of every community in the nation—to line up in support of those heroes who at this moment, under severest hardships, are baring their breasts to the assaults of ruthless enemies who would destroy our way of life and white polka dots and a wide white collar. Your dark hair is worn shoulder length. While your husband is in service you are making your home with his parents.

ARNALL AND GENE COME SAME WEEK

Talmadge On The Opening Day Of Tobacco Market; Ellis Saturday Following

If it takes political action to promote a successful tobacco market, there is no question that the Statesboro market will get a vigorous send-off on the opening week.

According to present announcements, Governor Eugene Talmadge is to be the drawing card on opening day, Tuesday, July 28th, when he will speak at the noon hour of the tobacco market, this announcement as to time being authorized by Arthur Howard, prominent Statesboro business man. Talmadge will be followed at the week end—on Saturday, August 1st—by his energetic opponent, Ellis Arnall.

Exactly to what extent these two distinguished visitors will influence the market is not entirely known, but how their schedules will fit into the activities of a tobacco market, will be revealed later.

Announcement of the governor's proposed coming first was made known through the Savannah Herald News Saturday, when it was announced that an invitation had been extended him by local followers. Accompanying the announcement appeared a list of names of some of those who had signed a telegraphic invitation. It has been currently understood that this invitation was drafted at a conference of friends Friday afternoon, which was the second such conference during the week, both of which were attended by out-of-town supporters of the governor. It has been explained that the invitation was not entirely political, but rather to learn of his captivity in German hands.

This mingled good-bad intelligence was contained in a message from Royal Canadian Air Forces, Ontario, Canada. This message was relayed by phone from Savannah, whence it had been handled by Postal Telegraph Company, which has an office there. The telephone message gave a thrill of happiness which extended from the Shuman family through wide circle of friends throughout this community.

Something like six weeks ago word was received from the same source announcing the fact that young Shuman, member of the Royal Canadian Air Forces who has been flying in England for the past six months, had failed to return from a raid over the city of Cologne. It was one of those dramatic and effective raids which had thrilled the entire Allied world.

"Missing in action" could mean all sorts of things; that loyalty and love which abides in parents' hearts held the Shuman father and mother tight to the fact that he was still alive. In advising family members to be patient, the message said that he would some day again hear from their son. This ray of light has sustained them from that hour. No definite word has been received direct from Dan Shuman; no particulars have been learned of the conditions of his captivity. It is known that he still lives; it is hoped that he will yet return.

Enraptured thus by the proposed coming of the governor, conferences began to occur among those of the opposing line-up, and an Arnall-for-Governor movement was begun which so far has yielded the definite announcement that Ellis Arnall will be in Statesboro on Saturday of the same week, August 1st, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. What steps will be taken by his friends to insure a generous hearing for him on the occasion of his coming remains to be developed in the days which are immediately ahead. Presumably the Arnall supporters will take such steps as appear necessary to inform the public of his proposed coming.

PICK DISCUSSES WHO GOT HIS CASH

Had Eleven Hundred When He Reached Statesboro; Now Living on a Pension

Pick Tompkins is a bright skinned colored citizen known to most of the old-timers who had a share in building Statesboro a half century ago. Even among the men of a younger generation there would still be some who took to him as a leader of his race. At least, there is this which can be said to his credit: Pick is not a squarer—he accepts conditions without whimpering and holds a "stiff upper lip."

Pick stopped at the Times office yesterday to renew an acquaintance of almost a half century. While here he mentioned, as is the habit of old men, he said he came to Statesboro from Greenwood, S. C., more than a half century ago to build the Dover and Statesboro railroad. He told us some things which we had not known; took us other things we had forgotten.

For instance, as he stood in the front door of our office, he told us that when he came to town on that first day "a long time back, but I don't remember the year," a rail fence enclosed the cultivated land on which the Times office is located. He told us he had come to town in pursuance of a previous arrangement to "do business with Mr. Bob Lester and Mr. John Donaldson, who had a store right where the Sea Island Bank is."

He told us that he went to the store and introduced himself to Mr. Donaldson accepted from him $11.00 in cash and placed it in his iron safe for keeping; he told us that the Central of Georgia operated excursions into Savannah each Sunday for colportage.

He went to Mr. Donaldson and drew down to pay his expenses on a Sunday jaunt, and blew in each Sunday vast amounts, until one day he waked up to the fact that he had exhausted the entire cash reserve. "No, I didn't blow it," he said, "even though I gambled—I never did believe in such things," he said, "but I sure had a good time drinking with my friends."

Pick seemed to smile when he recalled the good times which were his in those days. "I'm getting along all right now," he said, "even though my eleven hundred dollars have slipped away, and even though I am an old man and unable to work. I'm seventy-six years old; I did railroad work for sixty years; I made good wages, and I spent it all. Today I get a railroad employee's pension of $31.62 per month; that's enough to take care of me if I take care of it."

Then Pick reminisced about the men who built the Dover & Statesboro railroad a half century ago. Would you like to know the names of these men? "There was a Mr. Joe Burkhalter," he said, "who was a builder; he was about 80 years old, and his hair was white as snow; his son was Mr. Bas Burkhalter about 60 years old, and the son had charge of the construction. They were sure bullies! Mr. Jim Hogan worked for them. They did all the work and when they had finished it they turned it over to the company composed of Mr. J. P. Curry, Mr. Fred T. Lockhart and Mr. J. L. Fleming. They all have been dead a long time. Mr. Curry had a son named Dedrick; he's an old man now, still living in Augusta. Yes, sir; there was sure great times!"

People who knew Pick Tompkins fifty years ago bear testimony that they have never known him to get out of his proper place. They have spent his eleven hundred dollars foolishly, to be sure; lots of other men have done as bad as that!
